Abstract: Grant Lane

03/24/2022

Ask many long-time residents of Fort Bend County if they remember the distinctive, yellow low-wing monoplanes that dusted (or sprayed) crops all across Fort Bend and neighboring counties, and they will probably say yes. Grant Lane is the son of George Lane, Jr. and nephew of Mickey Lane, veteran US Navy fliers who founded Lane Airpark in Rosenberg after WW II. The Lane brothers were not only Fort Bend's first crop dusters but also its first local pilots.

They offered a variety of flying services and built their business into a remarkable success. Grant recounts the company's early history and its eventual development into an international operation with a significant presence in South America.

Many present-day residents are probably unaware that Rosenberg has an international success story like Lane Aviation. Grant's interview explains how it all happened.
